

ForgeBloom

Description:

ForgeBloom will be a website designed to help Magic the Gathering (MTG) players build, manage, and save their custom decks online. Users will be able to search for cards and add them to their decks through a simple interface. Each user will be able to create multiple decks, save them to their account, and return later to edit or view their collections. This site will focus on simplicity and accessibility, making it ideal for beginners and casual players who want a clean and organized experience. The website will also allow users to track their decks, helping them improve over time.

Page Names:

1. Home
2. Browse Cards
3. Create a Deck
4. My Decks
5. About Us

Data Storage:

We will store account information like, username, email, and hashed passwords to enable users to login. Each account will have its own collection of decks. Inside the stored decks we will have deck names, formats, descriptions, and possibly date created and modified. The contents of the decks will be a list of the card names, number of cards in a deck, and the cards unique code. Only the owners of the account will be able to edit their decks.
